Think of who have being favored to such controls extent another extends of the properties of the prope and that the bashic are pediming to understand the question and therefore are grawing restire under a policy that robs and oppresses thus; and to meet this the protected oppresses thus; oppresses them; and to meet this the protected monopolists now protein to desire revision of the tariff, " in the inferests of both producers. and consumers." The object, of course, is imply to play with and delude the publi They say now that they don't want a tariff that will oppress the consumer. But every protective tariff oppresses the consumer. That is just what it is for, and the more it oppresses more perfectly it fulfills the conditions that call it into being. The object is to enforce practical non-intercourse with foreign nations, so that the protected monopolist at home may be able to charge consumers what he likes. A protective tariff is a system under which foreign more difficult than the other elementary parts of education. Its difficulties are ridiculously goods are kept out a country with a design to raise the price of home commodities. But for this scheme and purpose a protective exaggerated by the fonetile ilosofers. tariff would never be heard of.

If "protection" be the object, the present tariff is good enough. It needs no revision. except to make it more stringent and to cause it (if that were possible) to favor the aiready protected monepolist still more. The real essence of protection is prohibition. It is absurd to suppose that the protected monopolists are tired of the privileges they enjoy. What they want is a renewal of their license to plunder the consumers of the country, and they ell enough that this oppressive tariff is soon to be attacked in congress, and they are preparing to foil the attack. Their profession of interest in the welfare of the consumer is the merest twaddle and hypocrisy. Their study is to plunder the consumer; and this movement on their part'is only to divert his attention while they go on with their system. It is a tub to the whale, and nothing more.

We are asked to look at our national prescrity as a signal and conclusive proof of the enclits of protection. But in fact we are prosperous not through protection but in spire of We have had advantages to sustain us thich are enjoyed by no other nation. We are an agricultural people. We have produced from our soil great staples which no other peorefuse. Had we depended on manufacturing productions alone on our commercial relations with other countries would long since have ceased to excountries would long since have ceased to ex-ist. But when we offered them the bread and to "appling reform." sees iled, said to have provisions they needed to meet the deficiency been adopted by the teachers' institute, were not adopted, but rejected. The great west and the great south have been plundered and oppressed for the enrichment of eastern monopolists. The urears system that "protects" a certain class in our castern states trushes the Pacific states and territories. Restriction of foreign intercourse keeps shipping away from our harbors, embargoes our agriculture, increases the cost of all we consume, and tends directly to our impovrishment. The vessel that would come to us can't bring a esign, for our laws virtually pro-hibit foreign goods. So it doesn't come at all, or it comes in ballast; and as it can have freight only one way our agriculture is forced to pay double rates of transportation. Then to crown all, the protected class force us to pay their own price for manufactured goods. It is a beautiful system. Were the question not mixed up with partisan interests are proposing foldistory duties on our agricultural products. It would tell with severity upon our agriculture, but still we trust they will do it. Wilou foreign countries impose hostile duties which diminish the market for American products, American formatical products, Ame American products, American farmers may be trusted to find out for themselves the real meaning of "protection." When they once and it out the end of protection will not be far distant. How we like it when other countries adopt our own principles in dealing with as has been exhibited in the uncasiness we have shown in consequence of the prohibition of our pork in some of the countries of Europe. Mr. Blaine's remonstrances aiready fill one of the thickest volumes in the library of diplomatic correspondence. Yet Mr. Blaim is a "protec-He wants to make it appear to foreign nations that they ought to take our cheap pork, but at the same time he treats with contempt their arguments that we ought to take their cheap commodities in exchange.

PROBABLE RECOVERY. The hope of the president's recovery, which at first, and for many days, had little to rost upon, at length gradually grew to a probability, and now seems advancing towards a cer-tainty. Danger, indeed, is not yet wholly past; that is, to human judgment there is yet no absolute assurance that he will recover and yet no one now can see any reason why he should not. The builet he his body may, however, for a long time give algood deal of inconvenience and truible. Compiler, authorities and trouble. Complete restoration may never take place, and yet the president may still have many years of life, with ability to discharge the duties to which he is called. His receivery will save the country from a shock very much like a crisis. It will nip in the bud all plets against the existing order of things. It will provent a battle royal in the republican party and will bring restored confidence to business and a better feeling in politics. With the re-covery of the president all things will full back to their original position with this important exception: The president has had a feeling of personal sympathy aroused for him, which will go far, if he conducts himself discreetly to render him one of the most popular chief magistrates of the country. The shameful attack upon his person will have a tendency to remove projudice and indifference from those minds in which they existed, and to intensify the feelings of partiality and esreem bitherto entertained. The administration party witi gain recruits, and will become more sanguine and confident; while the stalwarts will be proportionately depressed, as they are already overwhelmed with popular indigna-tion. As a currous matter of space-I ulation this theory may be well enough. The spelling of English once fluctuated greatly, but those irregularities have been ended by the universality of printing and the common consent of scholars and writers. The printing office and the common schools now give uni formity of apolling, and against these forces a few specialists cannot prevail. It is not neces sary to simplify our system of spelling. It is simple enough, and is easily learned by those who can learn anything. In fact it is not
